Subject: How are you?

Dear Steph,

Are you enjoying the snow here in Hokkaido? Does it snow in your hometown in Australia? I think our snow is different from yours in your hometown. Many Australian people like Japanese snow, especially in Hokkaido. They can enjoy skiing and other winter sports. By the way, next Sunday, my mother and I are going to “Sapporo Yukimatsuri”, which is called the “Snow Festival”, and enjoy seeing a lot of sculptures made of ice there. Every year we go there and have a fun time viewing wonderful arts and buying food and local souvenirs from the street shops. Would you like to go with us? I think it would be a nice memory for your stay in Hokkaido.
I hope you can join us!

Love,
Yuka

Subject: Thank you!

Hi, Yuka,

I'm happy to hear from you. Yes, I'm having a wonderful time with my host family here in Hokkaido. I like the snow in Hokkaido very much. Yesterday, I enjoyed snowboarding in Niseko. That was my second time to snowboard here, and quality of the snow was very nice, and I had a very fun time.
I have heard about “Sapporo Yukimatsuri” from my host family and I do want to go see it. We don't have any ice arts in Australia, so I am looking forward to visiting there. But, I want to *ask you a favor: on that day, Jan.27th, my host parents will go out for business to Akita, and I have to babysit their 11-year-old daughter. She is very gentle and friendly, so, can I take her there with me?
If you say OK, she will be very happy.

Love,
Steph

A Seed in the Pot

Once upon a time, there was a beautiful princess in a small *kingdom. One day, the king, her father, called all the young men in the village to the *palace. He said, “I will choose the man who will *marry my daughter from among you. I am going to give each of you a seed today. I want you to plant it, give water to it, and come back here six months from today with the plant. I will look at the plants which you grew and choose the *bridegroom.”

Alex was there. He went home and planted it in a pot very carefully. He gave water to it and watched it every day, but nothing grew in his pot. Three months later, he found that his seed was dead. He was very disappointed.

Another three months passed, and the important day finally came. Alex said to his mother, “I’m not going to take my pot to the palace.” “What’s wrong? I know you did the best you could. You must go and show it,” his mother said.

Alex went to the palace with the plant, and he was surprised to see that everyone had brought beautiful flowers. He didn’t bring any flowers. Then the king came in. He walked around the room and said, “I’m very glad to see your plants. They show what kind of person you are.”

The king continued, “Six months ago I gave everyone here a seed. But the seeds I gave all of you had been boiled and I knew no plants would come from them. All of you *except this boy have beautiful plants now. That means you did something to get them. Look! There is no plant in his pot, but this is the very thing I wanted from the future king.”

*kingdom: 王国 *palace: 宮殿 *marry ～: ～と結婚する
*bridegroom: 婿(むこ)、夫となる男性 *except ～: ～を除いて
