Subject: fashion contest

---

Hi Kota,

I wanted to talk to you after school today, but I didn't see you. Did you hear about the contest to design a costume for the school festival? Let's do one together. I have an idea for it. We can draw some mountains with a rainbow in the sky. What do you think? What is your club going to do at the festival? Our baseball club is going to cook some Chinese food. We hope to make a lot of money so we can buy new uniforms.

Write back soon,
Ken

Subject: I'm sorry!

---

Hi Ken,

Sorry I couldn't see you after school. I went to the gym after my last class because I had dance practice. We're practicing hard because we're going to perform at the festival. Today, we practiced for four hours! My mom was angry because I didn't say I'd be home late. I'd love to help you with your costume, but I'll be too busy practicing for the festival. I have to study for my tests, too. You're a great designer, so I'm sure you can make a nice costume by yourself. Your idea sounds interesting.

See you tomorrow,
Kota

Subject: No problem

Hi Kota,

OK, I understand. You're really busy! Do you remember Miki? She's a girl in my class. I'm going to call her tonight and ask her to make the costume with me. If she can't, I'll enter the contest alone. I'm glad you like my idea, and I can't wait to see your dance performance at the festival.

See you later,
Ken

- (1) What did Ken want to do with Kota?
  1. Make a costume for a contest.
  2. Go to a Chinese restaurant.
  3. Design a new uniform.
  4. Play baseball at school.

- (2) What is Ken's idea about the festival?
  1. To sell baseball uniforms.
  2. To perform a dance.
  3. To draw mountains with a rainbow on a costume.
  4. To call Miki.

- (3) Why didn't Ken see Kota after school?
  1. Kota was taking a test.
  2. Kota had dance practice.
  3. Kota had to go home early.
  4. Kota went to a festival.

- (4) Tonight, Ken is going to
  1. call a girl from his class.
  2. join the dance club.
  3. give a costume to his mother.
  4. say he's sorry to Kota's mother.

A Law of Life

*The Rocky Mountains are in the west of the U.S. They are to the west of *the Great Plains, which go from *the Mississippi River to the Rocky Mountains.

There was a wise mother who lived with her little son high up in the Rockies. Her husband had died a few years before, and so she was raising her son all by herself. They lived by themselves in a small house which looked out on a wide valley. They raised their own vegetables in the garden behind the house. The little boy himself took care of a couple of cows; which gave them milk every morning.

One day the boy *disobeyed his mother. She punished him for disobeying, and he started to cry. Then he became angry and ran out of the house toward the valley. Then he shouted in a loud voice. "I hate you! I hate you!"

Suddenly he heard a voice which seemed to come from across the valley. It said, "I hate you! I hate you!" It seemed to come from far away, but it could be heard quite clearly.

The boy was frightened and stopped crying. He turned around and ran back to his mother. "Mother! Mother!" he cried, "There's a bad man over there who says, 'I hate you!'"

When she heard this, his mother smiled, took him by the hand, and led him toward the valley again. Then she said to him, "Now shout 'I love you!' as loud as you can." When he had shouted it as loud as he could, he heard the echo: "I love you! I love you!"

Then his mother patted him on the head and said, "That is an echo. That echo teaches us a lesson. It is a law of life, son. You always receive the same thing that you give. If you give hate, you will receive hate; if you give love, you will receive love."
