Subject: Party

Dear Olivia,

How are you? I enjoyed studying with you at school this year. My English is better because of you. Your homestay is almost finished, and you're going back to New York at the beginning of March. My family and I will miss you! Before you go, we want to have a party for you at our house. Are you free on Saturday, February 20th, or Sunday, February 21st? We can also meet on March 6th. What would you like to eat?

Write back soon,

Kana

Subject: Thank you

Dear Kana,

Thank you very much for inviting me to your house. I have plans on Saturday the 20th, but I can come on Sunday the 21st. I'm leaving on March 8th, so I'll be busy on March 6th. I'd love to eat sushi. I have some photos to give you and your family. Do you remember our trip to Ise on New Year's Day? I took a lot of photos that day. I'll always remember the fun things we did. My year in Japan has been very special, and I also learned a lot of Japanese.

Thank you for everything,

Olivia

Alfred the Great and the Cakes

Many centuries ago, there lived in England a wise and good *ruler whose name was Alfred. He was the wisest king that ever ruled that country, and so he was called *Alfred the Great.

When Alfred was chosen king, England was not *united, and there were several small *kingdoms. Since the rulers of these kingdoms were *jealous of one another, England could not stop *the advance of the Danes, who came from abroad. Alfred tried hard to unite these kingdoms in order to stop the advance of the Danes, but he did not *succeed in doing so for a long time. In the meantime, he fought many hard battles, and he was often *defeated.

One morning, when his army had been badly defeated in battle, King Alfred himself had to escape from the enemy soldiers. He *wandered among the trees in a big forest for several hours.

Late in the afternoon, he came to the wooden *hut of a *woodcutter. As he was very hungry and tired, he asked the woodcutter's wife to give him something to eat and a place to sleep. The woman, who was baking cakes at the time, felt sorry for the poor stranger. (Of course, she did not know that the stranger was the king himself.)

"All right," she said. "I will give you something to eat if you watch these cakes for me while I go and milk the cow. Be careful. Don't let the cakes burn."

"I'll be glad to watch the cakes for you," said Alfred.

But while he was watching them, he began to think of many things: his defeats, the advance of the Danes, his need to *gather a new army. "What shall I do? When shall we be united? Can we stop the advance of the Danes, I wonder?" And while his mind was wandering, he forgot about the cakes.

After a little while, the woodcutter's wife, who had been milking the cow, returned. When she entered the hut, she smelled smoke.

"My cakes! I smell smoke. My cakes are burning!" she cried. She took a *broom and began to beat Alfred with it. "You let my cakes burn, you lazy *fellow! You want to eat, but you don't want to work."

*Needless to say, she did not know that she was beating and *scolding the king himself. Alfred could not help laughing and said, "I'm sorry. How careless I have been! Please forgive me."

Soon after that, Alfred gathered another army, stopped the advance of the Danes, and finally drove them out of southern England. Then, in order to have peace all over the land, he made many wise laws and chose many wise *judges. In order to help young people to learn, he invited many teachers from abroad, had many schools built, and had the history of England written by scholars. In this way England finally became united. Alfred was indeed a great king.

*ruler : 統治者 *Alfred the Great : アルフレッド大王 *unite : 統一する
*kingdom : 王国 *jealous of : ~をうらやむ *the advance of the Danes : デーン人の侵攻 *succeed in doing : ~に成功する *defeat : 負かす *wander : さまよう *hut : 小屋 *woodcutter : 木こり *gather : 集める
*broom : ほうき *fellow : やつ/人 *Needless to say : 言うまでもなく
*scold : 叱る *judge : 判事
